

MAYA ELFHAL

CONSULTANT & RESEARCHER

"As a young professional, I am energized by the opportunity to work alongside leaders who can share with me their unique experiences and knowledge. The Arlington team's commitment to supporting and mentoring others is very inspiring and is just one of the many approaches that leads them, and their clients, to achieve great outcomes."

Maya Elfhal is a Consultant and Researcher at Arlington Partners International. She provides Arlington's leadership team with integrated research and project coordination to ensure the highest calibre client and candidate experience. Maya is responsible for supporting a wide range of national and global searches in practice areas including Retail, Pharmaceutical and Life Sciences, Professional Services, and Human Resources engagements across all sectors.

With the majority of her previous work experience coming from the client services and sales sectors, Maya thrives in fast-paced, growing environments where collaboration is key to achieving outstanding results.

Maya earned her Bachelor of Arts in Sociology from Ryerson University and as her post-graduate Human Resources Management Certification from George Brown College.
